

The Bread of Life

Taking

the bread of life to life is one of the most sacred acts of human endeavour.

The bread of life, manna, is in fact the 'word made flesh in man'.

Not a religious expression but of a simple explanation of daily life to exist;

survive beyond the banal;
accept the inevitable with courage to voice, where necessary, those words of infinite wisdom.

Words of a simple texture, a simple story to be 'ignited' or 'manifested' into a source, a human being, - who either lacks or denies the powerful sense of their own connection to a source of never-ending supply of nourishment beyond their own, - regardless of another human being's view, voice or action to the contrary of their own precious life and story 'beyond' the drudge of repetitious natural life's daily endeavours.

Life, all life

is a most delicious flavour once the ingestion of another's truth is understood as valid to them personally and resonates eventually to give them the strength to survive on their own recognizance.

God is good

only when the manifestation of one's own truth is being fed by their (human being's) own inner strength or view or faith of being understood as a God internal and ever-flowing thought and conscious belief - experientially.

God is good

only when a sense of a 'more' in life is being 'felt' first hand and not being infiltrated by many forms, especially a gutless world of greed and propaganda swill.
